For smooth business interactions, remember that Dubai's workweek runs from Sunday to Thursday, with the weekend on Friday and Saturday. The city operates on Gulf Standard Time, which is four hours ahead of Coordinated Universal Time. Business attire is typically formal and modest to respect local customs, with light fabrics recommended due to the warm climate.

Dubai offers more than just a business destination, it is a place where modern infrastructure, cultural richness, and luxury combine to create an inspiring environment for work and leisure. For business travellers, the city provides everything needed to succeed professionally while enjoying a truly remarkable stay. ■
